

An Ideal Ending Journey's End

Travelling along the gravel road that climbs up the imposing Hottentots Holland mountain range, past bucolic vineyards cooled by coastal breezes, you just know that you are heading somewhere special. And when the journey finally ends at Journey's End estate, and you are greeted by the dramatic sweeping views of the entire False Bay coastline, you know that you have definitely arrived.

With craggy mountains that plunge into a glistening ocean seemingly as far as the eye can see; it is a view that captures the majesty of the Cape, softened by the vineyard carpet at your feet, planted in a terroir that consistently produces award-winning wines.

A modern incarnation of the African farmhouse, Journey's End offers sprawling easy-living spaces, built to make the most of the local lifestyle – a great space in which to entertain, kick back, cool off, get comfortable and really, really relax. Whoever said that it is the journey that counts never ended it here.

At a Glance

Bedrooms and Bathrooms

Journey's End sleeps ten people in three double rooms and two twin-bedded rooms. All five rooms are en suite with stunning views. Two of the bedrooms are downstairs while the other three are upstairs. One of the upstairs bedrooms has its own private entrance and kitchenette.

Living Areas

The living areas are all open plan with doors leading outside to create an easy flow to the stunning views. The kitchen has an informal living area leading to the courtyard, infinity pool and BBQ area. The more formal dining room (seating up to 12 people) has views of the pool.

Most of the living areas have panoramic views over the vineyards to False Bay, and on a clear day, you can see right through to the Cape of Good Hope. The loft-style TV area with sound system overlooks the lounge area.

Outdoor

The outdoor entertainment area is well equipped with comfortable seating and a BBQ. The pool has gorgeous views over the bay. There is a large veranda at the front of the house to enjoy the splendid views. Facilities in the area include horse riding, fishing, wine tasting and hiking.

Services and Security

Journey's End is serviced daily and a farm manager lives on the premises. The estate also boasts a state-of-the-art alarm system and a full catering service is available on request.

Surrounds

The Cape Helderberg (a 45-minute drive from Cape Town) is one of the most visually dramatic areas in the Cape, with the Hottentots Holland and Helderberg mountain ranges serving as a backdrop against which the valley descends into vineyards and finally onto a coastline swept with white, sandy beaches.

A designated wine-producing region bordering Stellenbosch, this area benefits from south-facing slopes and coastal breezes. Aside from wine tours, and the beaches and waterfront delights of Gordon's Bay, there is a magnificent coastal route to Hermanus, the unofficial whale-watching capital of the Cape.
